Remarkable Speech in the Case of Mr. Neeley.

It Is Threatened to Run Into To be Traveled Half Way Under the the Next Generation.

Havens, April 11.-In the United States It is coming to be held that an hour in most cases is sufficient for a modern lawyer to sum up his client's side as the trial is closing. But in the remarkable Neeley-Hathbune postal-faud case, Sr. Lanuza, counsel for Rathbone, kept on talking a full week, day after day, interrupting himself once only, when he was called to his wife's hedside. On his return, there was a hopoless bench, for a new Lanuza had ben born, and the judges had aprehensions of a plot to continue the summing up through the next generation. At last, however, the flow of the narrative and the argument stopped; counsel for Neeley and Reeves, other principuls in the cane, had their say, that President Loubet took a tap under speaking from two or thre days each, the water in her. In a word, it would be admitted by the judges and by the Government that the courts sought guidance. There were questions of official relations with which the latter were unfamiliar. Water in Submarine.

New York, April 12,-The New York World says: A submarine essel that will cross the Atlantic and remain under water half the time! Such is the marvellous craft that Gou-bet, the famous French inventor of submarine bouts, is designing. He promises that his newest and most perfect ship will make, under water at least half the 2,000 miles between London and New York. Goubet is no dreamer. Expert and most practical, he first, in 1885, created the little Submarine Goulet, whose original pattern weighed only one and one half tons. Gradually he improved the type. The child of his brain is the torpedo-boat Gustave Zede, 189% feet long, the giantess of her kind, France's first fighting submarine.
